YESTERDAY the Catholic churches were well attended, it being the day when the church is called upon to celebrate the feast of Purification, commonly called Candlemas Day. On this day the church solemnly celebrates the presentation of Jeaus in the Temple and therein the obedience and humility of Mary and her Divine Son, who, though not subject to the law in regard to purification and presentation, yet subjected themselves to it. Hence this feast is called the purification of the Virgin Mary. Usually it is called Candlemas, because on this day the candles required for the divine services for the whole year are blessed, which was done in the morning after first mass.

Mr. Peterson offered a resolution that kicked up one of the most amusing and childish exhibitions that has occurred in the Court House for a long time. It was to the effect that Mr. Boring be placed on the Committee on Roads and Bridges in place of Mr. Stocker, and stated that this was on the request of Mr. Stocker.

There was a regular rumpus at the meeting at which the make-up of the committees was announced, and it was remittees was announced, and it was re-

The Board did not finally adjourn antil 5 o'clock in the afternoon, having wasted fully five hours in senseless talk. The present Board has the mislortune to have among its members some who feel it to be their bounden duty to talk at least six times on almost every measure or report that comes up. They use big words, which they mispronounce and probably do not understand the meaning of, and manage to cause thesessions to last about three times as long as they ought to. It is annusing and at the waster week was minotined, and it was te sumed in a mild way yesterday. Everyone wanted to be a chairman apparently, and as this could not be, there have been sore heads since. Mr. Boring, the oldest member of the Board, both in years and in the way of continuous service, was laced on only one committee, while all other members, news well as tilt, were placed on two, and in several cases on three committees. Of course Mr. Boring was that to say so. Mr. Peterson stated that he offered the reasolution understanding that Mr. Stocker was willing to go off of the Road and Bridge Committee; Stocker said that whatever the Board might do, he was no "kinkegr" and would abide by it. Boring made a treathling appeal for himself and Peterson aided him. Mr. P. Ecket, as usual, spoke several times on the question and finally amended by substituting Finance for Roads and Bridges. Irs. Hannah M. Hopkins Passes Away After a Life of Plous Devetion.

Mrs. Hannah M. Hopkins passed away esterday at her residence on North Mai street. Of frail physique, long a patient sufferer, she outlived by many years the prophecies of the most accomplished phy-sicians. Her remarkable will power, cheerful temperament and confiding trus cheerini temperament and conning trust in the God to whom she devoted her life sustained her through the years of pain.

Mrs. Hopkins was a woman far above the ordinary. She had a fine literary sense, was a sparkling writer, a brilliant conversationalist, in short a very gifted person. But the charm of her heautiful character was in her modest plety, as devont as it was radiant. To her religion was a joy, not a severe duty. Ever ready at proper times and in proper places with good counsel, her example was in itself a right volume of moral and religious precept. She went short doing good, adding to her benefactions the good cheer of her sanny nature. She was beloyed by all who knew her, and to them her loss will be a personal pain.

Mrs. Hopkins was for many years one of the active members of the Fourth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, in whose work she took a zealous part. Her gentle influence will be misced from the congregation. Her sweet volce, so oftan heard in prayer as powerful as it was simple, is highed forever. Wheeling has lost a true and noble woman who would have shous in any sphere. "He giveth His beloved sleep." in the God to whom she devoted her life

Wheeling-An Appeal for Aid to the

A destructive fire broke out last night shortly after ten o'clock in the large flouring mill at Burlington, Ohio, a small village on the Belmont and Jefferson unty line, about five miles above this city. The town or hamlet contains perindustry of importance was the flouring mill flames quickly destroyed the mill and sired to be appointed Constable for that district to fill a vacancy that existed. On motion of Mr. Delbrugge he was appointed and his bond approved.

Various petitions were referred, and at 12 o'clock a recess was taken until 2 r. m.

On reconvening, the question of paying Sweeney & Son $225 for a new pump at the Infirmary was reopened and exactly two hours wasted. The matter was finally referred to the committee with power to act. It appears that the pump does not give satisfaction for this reason: The supply pipe from the house to the creek, a wilkeling appraisance.

WIFELING APPEALED TO FOR AID.

About eleven o'clock a telephone message was received by the Wheeling fire department asking that an engine be sent up to save what was left of the village. The messenger who came to Martin's Ferry to telephone for aid said the village was doomed. It was concluded to send the Atlantic engine over, and Mayor Grubb and Chief Dunning accompanied it, leaving about midnight.

But meagre particulars could be obtained last night. The loss of the mill, however, even if no other building had been consumed, would be a severe blow to the village. It is almost certain that at least eight or ten other houses would also be burned.

members leared that the fault was with the pump and hesitated about paying for it. As before stated, the matter was finally referred to the committee again.

H. M. Russell, Esq., presented a bill of $25 for services in connection with the country vote on the Mr. V., C. & W. road subscription that was ordered paid.

Ex-Policeman Charles Grist was appointed a Coustable in Webster district and City Assessor Ralph Arkle was appointed a Justice of the Peace for Washington in the place of James Bogard, who had failed to qualify.

The loss connected with last night's fire will be between $18,000 and $20,000; this is partially covered by insurance in the Lupton agency of Martin's Ferry. The fire is supposed to have been accidental and to have started in a corner of the cellar where there was stored five barrels of oil.
